HE EASILY DISPOSES OF BASSETS LAW AND HORNPIPE.

The Reene Three-year-old Performs Very Badly and Can Run None After the Race Counter Tenor Takes the Prospect Handlenp-Dobbins Runs the Best Race or the Day Purses for Louise Filly, Live Oak, Black Hawk, and Wah Jim

The storm of vesterday spoiled the splendid regramme which Secretary McIntyre of the sokivn Jockey Club had arranged for the se and day of the autumn meeting at Gravesend, scratches being so numerous that the Orithich was expected to be one of the best races of the year, was reduced to a rather tame affair, in which Ramapo won eleverly from Bassetlaw, with Hornpipe, the only other starter, a dis-The Prospect Handicap, for twoar-olds, had a big field of starters, but it did not amount to muchas a contest, the outsider, Counter Tenor, owned by Col. Ruppert, winning, with the Lorillard's representative, Dolabra, second, and the lightweight Cromwell third. Despite the cloudburst more than 7,000 persons were in attendance.

Hornpipe's performance was a great disapntment to the Messrs. Keene and their trainer. William Lakeland. Mr. Keene asked the stewards of the meeting to look into the race, and Lakeland, who was puzzled, took the colt on the track after cooling him out and sent him a mile. John Lamly rode the three-year-old, and alpunched him all the way. the best he could do was to make the circuit of the course in 1:54%. Only a few days ago Hornpipe was second in the fastest mile and a furlong that has been run hereabouts for months, and on the strength of that race many real good judges of public form thought that he had a chance to defeat Ramapo at the weights and played him at 2 to 1. This division of the talent howled when Bassetlaw and Ramapo beat Hornpipe half a furlong. Ramapo, as well as the Louise filly, ran in the name and colors of John Daly, partner David Gideon, who has a suit for $50,000 against President Dwyer, not course. Ramapo was at the surprisingly good price of 3 to 5 for the Oriental Handicap, and he was a rather handy winner. Oriffin drawing the finish much finer than was necessary. Baseetlaw made the running from the start and was quite a good horse yesterday.

The idiosyncrasies of the favorites Byron Mc-Clelland's The Commoner, spoiled the race for the Prospect Handicap, he behaving so badly for half an hour in the pouring rain that he not only descroyed his own chances of winning, but those of the other top weights as well, and the battle at the end was between the light weight division. The Commoner was played at 2 to 1, as though the race was over when betting began. Heavy commissions later on Havoc, whose price was knocked from 6 to 1 to 3 to 1, gave the race a more uncertain look. Dolathr was at 4 to 1, while St. Veronica was well played at 4% to 1. The crack Westerner Flying Dutchman, owned by Pat Dunn of Chicago, carrying 124 pounds and ridden by John Reagan, opened up at 4 to 1, but went to 15 before the bugle called the horses to the post. He caused the greatest admiration among the onlookers, his me size and racy lines making him quite outlook his field. The Commoner began his didoes on reaching the post, and was almost left there the first time he broke and wheeled. He would run ten or twenty yards, then wheel to the left and come to a standstill. After repeating this performance half a dozen times. Havoo began acting badly, and then Counter Tenor took a turn at the monkeyshine business. One of Mr. Rowe's assistants was finally placed behind The Commoner, and by a liberal use of the whip he was induced to go away with the others. Havoc and Flying Dutchman ran head and head for three furlongs, with Counter Tenor and Dolabra in close attendance. In the homestretch the weight told first on Flying Dutchman and then on Havoc, and the finish was between Counter Tenor and Dolabra, the former winning by a narrow margin. Cromwell came through with a rush in the final furlong and beat Havoc home for third money. The Commoner was never prominent, but Flying Dutchman and Havoc both ran well, considering what they went through at the post. The winner was hought to be one of the cracks of the year in the early spring, but his violent temper and faint heart have kept him from winning a stake until yeareday.

Lo Bengula and the Louise filly were the most strongly supported of the dozen two-year-olds that went to the post for the copining dash at we furlongs. The race from the start, which was a trifle straggling, was between Louise filly, lo Bengula and Phebus, the former taking a decided lead in the final furlong, and winning by a ogood open length. In a drive Lo Bengula beat Phoebus a short head for second money. Bright Phoebus a short head for second money. Bright Phoebus a short head for second money. Firsh Phoebus while St. Veronica was well played at 414 to 1. The crack Westerner Flying Dutchman, year-olds, for which Buckrene was a top-heavy favorite. Griffin had the mount on Live Oak, and when the favorite rushed away in the lead he kept the son of Linden within striking distance of the patched-up son of Buchanan. In the homes retch Griffin made play for the van, and, taking the centre of the course, where the feeting was best, he won hands down. Buckrene was a comfortable second, but Pochino and Terranian were only noses apart in the order named for third place. Dwight could not run in the mod and was beaten away up.

Discount was an even money chance in the opinion of the talent for the selling race that came fifth on the programme. The outcome of the contest was a coloseal aurprise for men who think they know something about form, for bisck Hawk gave the supposed-to-be stake colt. Discount two pounds and a sound beating. It was mainly due to Tarai's exertions, however, as the Dutchman got away well, made all the running, and won in a broising finish by a nose from Gov. Sheehan, who got off bedry and should have won casily. Discount was a fair third, with Trevelyan a close fourth. There was a strong tip out on Canary Bird and she carried some money at long odds. The winner was a 15 to 1 shot. Old Dominion was served up red hot to the spectators for the sixth race at five and a half furlongs, but the gelding could not score, as Wah Jim made all the running under a puil and won very clevery by a length. Hasethatch and Old Dominion had a rare fight for second money from start to finish, the favorite getting the advantage by a few inches in the last strides. Lustre was few inches in the last strides. Lustre was few inches in the last strides.

tew inches in the last strides. Lustre was fourth.

The final race of the day, a handleap at one maile and a sixteenth, was the best race of the day from a time standpoint, and served to show what a greatly improved three-year-old Dobbins is. Mr. Croker's big son of Thora was an even-money favorite over Sandowne, Faraday, Ingomar, and others, but he was giving away so much weight that a majority of the taient thought he would be beaten, and Sandowne was considered the animal enablie of taking Dobbins into camp, the little four-year-old being a rare performer in the mud. Sandowne tried to outrun Dobbins from the very start, but the three-year-old clung to him like a shadow, and beat him nearly a length in 1:49%, of which the last mile was run through the mud in 1:43. Ingomar was a poor fund, with the others beaten off. Summaries follow: FIRST BACE.

NEWTOWN NOT READY VET. Everything in Disorder at the Half-mile Track.

The fall meeting of the Newtown Jockey Club, which was advertised to commence ye was postponed until Tuesday next. The track is almost circular, and has an overhead arrange ment of incandescent lights for night racing. ment of incandescent lights for night racing. The enclosure has been newly fenced and a new grand stand erected. The improvements were in an unfinished condition, and disorder was in evidence on every hand yesterday. The track is located on the grounds of the Kings County Driving Park, near Long Island City.

George H. Engeman, who is reputed to be interested with Mesers, Frank, Collins, and Langcake in the project, was on hand yesterday in company with James Clare, the superintendent, taking a careful survey of the premises.

A Postponement at Fleetwood.

It would have been an unprecedented occurence if the harness racers had got through with week's engagement here and escaped the rain. This time it came too late to do much harm, and only one of the classes arranged for the Grand Circuit meeting at Fleetwood goes by default. An effort was made to get these who have horses in this contest to agree to a division of the purse according to the summary after the two heats trotted. ENGLISHMEN AT THE WICKETS. A Neck and Neck Race Between Surrey and Yorkshire All the Season.

At the close of last week all interest ceased in the competition between English counties for the cricket supremacy of 1894. Throughout the summer the race between last year's champions, Yorkshire, and the Southern cracks. Surrey who were Yorkshire's predecessors in title, has been of a neck and neck description. and only for the rain interfering with Yorkshire's last match the final result would have been a tie. The figures of the competition give been a tie. The figures of the competition give Surrey 11 points. Yorkshire 10, and Middlesex 3, the Metropolitan county coming third in the table. Each of the nine first-class counties play two matches with the others, but in the event of rain or any other cause preventing a match from being finished, there is no rule by which it can be regulated, a very weak point in a competition of such importance. Thus, Surrey played 16 matches, won 13, lost 2, and drew 1, and Yorkshire Played only 15 games, won 12, lost 2, and drew 1, and ever unable to make a start in one instance, the first match with Kent. Of the other counties, Gloucestershire, the county of the Graces, comes out with the wooden spoon, owing 11 points, while Sussex, of which the Australian crack. W. L. Murdock, is captain, did very little better, owing 8 points. Notts, who for years held the championship, and in several instances without suffering a single defeat, are one above Sussex, having losts 8 matches and won only 4. The wins and losses of Kent, Lancashire, and Somersetshire were about one level.

Just as the Surreys have won the championship, the best batting average is held by a Surrey professional, Brockwell, with 37.88 for thirty-nine innings, including five centuries, Last season his average was only 21. Gunn, the Nottingham professional, comes next, with 31.96, his club mate. Shrewsbury, England's best bat, having been out of cricket, owing to filness. Abel, another Surrey man, is third, with 31.67. A. E. Stoddard, who starts on Sept. 21 with a team for Australia, is fourth with 31.34. L. C. H. Palairet of Lord Hawke's last American team, is fifth with 31.10, and the champion, Dr. W. G. Grace, is sixth with 29.55. Of those who are counting here with Lord Hawke, J. Douglas has an average of 23,50; Lord Hawke, 21.43; C. W. Wight, 19.64; C. E. De Surrey 11 points, Yorkshire 10, and Middlesex plon, Dr. W. G. Grace, is sixth with 29.55. Of those who are coming here with Lord Hawke, J. Dougias has an average of 23.50; Lord Hawke, 21.45; C. W. Wright, 19.64; C. E. De Trafford, 19.60.

Pougher, Leicestershire's professional, leads the bowing averages with 5d wickets, for 9.35 runs, but Richardson of Surrey has taken 18d wickets for 19.25 runs, and Wold of Lancashire 186 for 11.25. Eleven bowlers have taken over 100 wickets during the season, while six batsmen have scored over 1,000 runs.

One of the features of the season was a tie between Surrey and Lancashire. There are only seven instances of a tie in first-class cricket in England, and Surrey had figured in six of them, all at the great London ground, the Oval. Another remarkable incident was in a match between Yorkshire and Gloucestershire. The first four Yorkshire men made 34 runs and the last four over 300. The last man in, Hirst, scored 115, not out, almost a unique occrence.

THE ACCIDENT TO THE VIGILANT. The "Yachting World" Thinks it Was Due to Poor Workmanship.

LONDON, Sept. 8 .- The Yachting World, in an article reviewing the yachting season, pins its faith to the likelihood that the latest accident to the Vigilant's centreboard was due to a defective casting.

"English workmen," it says, "are not accustomed to bronze centreboards, but at the same time it is not unlikely that the first accident to the boat was caused by a strain upon some part of the mechanism which had been overlooked. Nevertheless it is a remarkable coincidence Nevertheless it is a remarkable coincidence that in each case the breakdown occured in the same locality while the beat was on the same errand. Ferhats all this comes from sailing on Sunday. Mr. Gould is a sportaman, and we sympathize with him in the lil lack he has sustained with his bronze beauty. His trip must have cost him a fabulous amount of dollars, and the result in respect of glory is very little. The Vigilant is an undoubted giant, but she met another giant who was a trifle her superior. The repeated damage to her centreboard does not impress our yachtsmen with the advantages of the contrivance, and few owners of yachts would make such victims as Mr. issuid, who has been compelled to scratch two out of three races in which he especially desired to compete, it was a cruel fortune.

The Fachting World also notes the fact that fortune."

MANLEY ANNOUNCES REED. SIX LITTLE TAILORS

MAINE'S ONLY CHOICE FOR THE PRESIDENCY IN 'DG.

The Republican Chairman Says that the Fine Tree State's Delegates to the Na-tional Convention Will Be for the Ex-Cent First, Last, and All the Time, AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 8 .- Joseph Manley was interviewed here to-day by a SUN correspondent. Speaking of Tom Reed and the Presidential nomination in '96, he said : "In the next Republican National Convention Tom Reed will be a candidate for the first place on the ticket. All New England will be solid for him, and the delegates from Maine will up. The stock be for him in the Convention first, last, and all

"In the last Convention in '92 Tom Reed could have had the second place on the ticket as a gift, but he didn't care for it, and neither will he in '96 accept the second place." "Is it not likely that a deal may be arranged whereby the ticket will be Reed and McKinley or McKinley and Reed in '96?" Mr. Manley, after a few moments' evident reflection, replied firmly with an emphatic " No."

Continuing, he said: "There is no likelihood of such a deal. The Republicans of Maine will be as loyal and as steadfast to Tom Reed as they have been to Blaine in the past. There is no foundation for any claim on the part of any friend of Gov. Mc-Kinley that Tom Reed was antagonistic to his candidacy for the Presidency in 1892, McKinley candidacy for the Presidency in 1892. McKinley himself during the week of the Convention went among the delegates and discountenanced the boom that was being made by his friends in his behalf. Certainly nothing that Tom Reed did could have injured Gov. McKinley in the Convention. Reed was loyal to Blaine.

"There are likely to be other candidates for the nomination—other than Tom Reed or Gov. McKinley. My ideal Republican candidate is John Sherman, for he is undoubtedly the most accomplished man from his long experience in the public service. He understands insance thoroughly, as evidenced by his labora while Secretary of the Treasury and his long service in the Senate. But John Sherman is now 72 years old and past the limit. If he were to be the next President, he would be 80 years old on completing the term in 1900. Justin Morrill of Vermont might be mentioned, but his age would be against him more than in the case of Sherman. Morrill is now nearly 80, and at 82 would not be considered available.

"How would Gov. Greenhalge do as a candidate?"

"Well, Gov. Greenhalge will be with Massa-

Well, Gov. Greenhalge will be with Massa. chusetts in the next Republican Convention, and, like Massachusetts, will be for Thomas B. Reed like Massachusetts, will be for Thomas B. Reed of Maine."

"Hobert Lincoln.too.might be presented as the favorite son of Illinois. His name is one to conjure up all the old party pride in a live campaign." Mr. Manley hesitated a moment and then said: "Ben Harrison may again be a candidate for the nomination."

"But ex-President Harrison is not likely to have the same strength as in the Convention of '92. His occupancy of the White House in '92 gave him an advantage such as he cannot exercise under the present Democratic Administration. Without the patronage he may not be able to control the Southern delegates, whose votes in the last Convention gave him the mastery. But the Convention is some way off yet.

"Do I think the Populists will be a factor in the next Presidential campaign? Well, no, I do not, I do not believe they will hold the balance of power in the next electoral college. The choice will be as herefore between the other two. of power in the next electoral college. The choice will be as heretofore between the other two who are the Democrats likely to nominate for the Presidency in '96?'

"Well, just now there seems to be some feel-ing that the party, from sheer necessity, will turn to Grover Cleveland for a third term. "Of course such a move would be an innova-tion and would be dangerous for the party. Yet there are some people who will say a third term for President Cleveland would be no violation of the traditions of our country, for the reason there was an interregnum betweenthis first and present term.

"But the argument is not likely to stand, for the argument would be decidedly against the on, as was the case when Gen, Grant, in the height of his fame sought a third nomination in 1880, after he had been out of his office four in 1880, after he had been out of his office four years. Gen. Grant's experience ought to settle the question of third-term Presidential candidates for all time."

Referring to David B. Hill as a possible candidate, Mr. Manley remarked that the Senator from New York had proved himself an exceptionally able man. The tariff, according to Mr. Manley, would be the issue between the two great parties in 1896.

NORTHERN PACIFIC DEALS.

Special Master Cary Exonerates President Oakes-Henry Villard Accused.

MILWAUKER, Sept. 8 .- A. L. Cary, who was appointed special master to investigate charges made by the Ives faction in the Northscific affairs, that Mr. Oakes, as President of that road had made millions by buying branch lines cheap and selling them at high prices to the Northern Pacific, filed his report to-day. The Ives men declared at the time of Carv's appointment that Judge Jenkins, who appointd Carp, had so restricted the scope of the inquiry that a whitewash of Oakes would result, Special Master Cary exonerates Mr. Oakes, but says Henry Villard made large sums by the kind chi manipulations of the kind charged against Oakes. Cary says Oakes had nothing to do with the Chicago terminal deal. Villard is charged with making unlawful gains out of the acquisition by the Northern Pacific of the Manitoba branch to the amount of $363.601. In regard to the Rocky Fork road, Cary's re-port shows that the directors were interested in or $363,000.

In regard to the Rocky Fork road, Cary's report shows that the directors were interested in it and the Rocky Fork Coal Company as well. As to whether the directors made any unlawful gains by said acquisition, Mr. Cary finds that they did not. Then the question arises, What did Oakes know about this?

"I do not find," says the report, "that Mr. Oakes was disloyed to his company or its interests or neglected its interests as its director."

The report on the Chicago terminal deal takes up sixty-four pages. The testimony taken, says Mr. Cary, shows the property cost $10,298,783. Closing, Mr. Cary says:
"Taking all things into consideration, I find that the rental agreed to be paid by the Northern Pacific Haliroad Company in its lease of the Chicago terminals of April 1, 1890, was not exorbitant or improvident, and that Thomas E. Oakes is not guilty of any malfeasance as an officer or director of the Northern Pacific Italiroad Company in respect to said lease."

A GREAT WEEK FOR CYCLERS. All the Well-known Racers Entered for the Springfield Meet,

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 8 .- Without exception all the great riders of the United States will compete in the races of the Springfield Bicycle Club next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. As the riders of America lead the world these, contests will settle the world's championships. The Springfield tournament has for years been looked upon as decisive, and every well-known ride plans to save himself for this meet. During the east week all the more prominent men have pass to save himself for this meet. During the past week all the more prominent men have been training hard upon the track, and all show fine form. Yesterday Walter Sanger rode an unpaced mile in practice in 2:00, and John S. Johnson did 2:07. As the world's unpaced record is 2:07.2-5, made but a short time ago by Harry Tyler, it may readily be seen these three great riders are in first-class form.

Sanger has been out of form all through the circuit since leaving Chicago for Denver, and since the Wauseon meet on Aug. 27 he has been enjoying a needed rest. Johnson has also had resting spells, and is in great condition. Leat year he suffered from his teeth, and could not ride here. Tyler did not go on the Western circuit at all, and having been engaged in record work for months should do finely. Little Pye Hiss has been attending more to the securing of records than to race training, but he is in shape to do good work. Three world's records yesterday, broken after several miles of hard training work, is a line on Fred Titus's form. Eddie Baid is again in trim, as was demonstrated by his handy win over Tyler. Sanger, and Bliss on Labor Day at Waltham. When hald is in shape he is game to the tape. George Taylor, Charley Murphy, and W. W. Taxis are old-timers in racing, and all are showing up finely in practice. Murphy has been placed in as many hard finishes this season as any mnn on the path. Taylor showed first-class form for the great race at Waltham on Labor Day. Taxis has taken a season to recover from his fall at Plainfield. He rode well at Hartford last Monday, and he may be the surprise at this meeting. Ray MacDonald of New York will be no mean has taken a season to recover from his fall at Plainfield. He rode well at Hartford last Monday, and he may be the surprise at this meeting. Ray MacDonald of New York will be no mean opponent in any of the rates, especially in the quarter and half mile dashes. In these MacDonald will meet Ir. Brown, the Cleveland physician, who has a reputation for short-distance races surpassed by none. Cabanne of St. Louis has had careful training for this meet, and should he show the form displayed at Toledo will give a good account of himself, Louis Callahan, the Buffalo boy wonder, should show up well. This is the lad who jumped the bunch at Syracuse and won the one-mile open contest in which he had only been placed as a bay emaker.

contest in which he had only occupiated in the handicaps and class races all the noted riders have entered. They include Cooper, Lumsden, Githens, Kennedy, Maddox, E. C. Johnson, L. C. Johnson, A. B. Goehler, W. F. Murphy, Fred Graves, Harry Arnold, Charles Callahan, Helfert, Miller, and many more. The heats will be run on Tuesday morning and afternoon, and the finals on Tuesday and Wednesday atternoons,

THE L. A. W. BACING BOARD Susy with Investigations and Devising

Since the termination of the national meeting of the League of American Wheelmen the preferred against Class B racing men and preparing new rules to be presented at the next meeting of the Board. The racing season will practically cease on Oct. 1, and now that some of the biggest tournaments are over, the racing officials are in a position to take a survey of the season and pick out the weak points in the new officials are in a position to take a survey of the season and pick out the weak points in the new Class B rules.

Chairman Raymond of the Racing Board was seen by a SUN reporter yesterday, and in discussing the racing situation he declares that the facing Board is highly pleased with the result of the initial year of class B racing, although they find that many medifications will be made to the rules for next year.

At the next meeting of the Racing Board steps will be taken to adopt a rule which will compel class B men to adhere to any contract that they may make with the manufacturers, and the racing officials hope in this way to do away with this habit of jumping contracts. The new rule is to be made to other rules.

The Racing Board approve of the official reference, and Chairman Raymond states that next season he hopes to see an official referee attending all the circuit meetings. Considering the success of the national circuit racing and also the troubles which arose over the unjust decisions of some of the inexperienced officials, the league believes that an official referee is a necessity. The Racing Board have in view the idea of placing a small assessment upon all clubs applying for a place on the national circuit, and this sum will be used to defray the expenses of an official referee to all the national circuit, and this sum will be used to defray the expenses of an official referee to all the national circuit, and this sum will be used to defray the expenses of an official referee to all the national circuit, and this sum will be case to the reacing men received very poor treatment at the Manneagolis meeting, and that they were perfectly justified in refusing to ride in races when the time limit was placed so low. So far it is likely that the the result of the investigation will throw general discredit upon the Minneapolis Association. Previous to the national meeting for the L. A. W. at Denver it was runnored that the Racing Board would immediately after the championahip races suspend a number of

MARY MARSHALL ACCUSES HER COMPANION.

Wellace Ladue Caught Hurrying Away from the Hotel Room They Had Occupted He Bentes that He Shot Mer Met Her Testerday, He Says, for the First Time. A young woman, who told the police her name was Florence Edwards and the Coroner that she was Mary Marshall, is dying in the New York Hospital as a result of a pistol shot wound in the right breast. How it was inflicted can be explained only by herself and the man who was with her. The police of the West Thirty-seventh street station did their utmost to keep the de-

The shooting occurred in a house known as Schick's Hotel, at 318 Seventh avenue, near Twenty-eighth street, where rooms rent for thirty-five cents and upward.

As far as could be ascertained, the young wo-man and a man entered the hotel at 1:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon and asked the clerk, Charles Schellinger, for a room,

The man signed the register "James Smith and wife," and they were assigned to a small hall room on the second floor, front, numbered 18. At 2:50 o'clock the clerk heard the report of revolver coming from the room. He hurried up the stairs and met the man who had regis ered as Smith hurrying along the hall toward the stairway. Mrs. Schick, wife of the pro prietor, Charles Schick, was also attracted by the sound of the revolver, and she called to her husband in the saloon below.

Schick and Schellinger seized the man and sent Mrs. Schick for a policeman. The man angrily demanded to be released, declaring that they had no right to hold him. Schick told the clerk to go to the room and find out what had bed half undressed, with blood flowing from s wound in the right breast. The revolver, a cheap 32-calibre weapon, was lying on the bec beside her. Only one shot had been fired. She sustained her posture by resting on both hands, and was unable to speak. Schellinger ran for a doctor, who restored the woman to consciousness Policeman William H. Haney arrived some time after the shooting, and he took Mr. Schick's prisoner into custody. Then he rang for an ambulance from the New York Hospital.

The prisoner denied having shot the woman and consented to go back with the policeman quietly so that the woman could identify him. When they reached the room the woman looked "That's him; hold him fast," The man said he was Wallace Ladue, a machinist, 36 years old of 605 First avenue. He gazed calmiy a the woman, and in a collected manner said; the woman, and in a collected manner said:

"She is raving. I did not shoot at her at all."

She offered no explanation of the shooting and gave no more information about herself except to say that she was 24 years old and lived at 18. West Sixtieth street. She is rather a good-looking woman of dark complexion and has the appearance of a domestic.

Later at the hospital it was said that the bullet had passed through her lungs, and the doctors thought she was dying. A call was sent to Coroner Dobbs to take her ante-mortem statement.

sent to Coroner Dobbs to take her ante-mortem statement.

To the Coroner she said that her real name was Mary Marshall. She met Ladiue, she said, at Twenty-eighth street and Seventh avenue, and they went to a saidon, where they had several drinks. Then they went to Schick's hotel. She fell asleep. "When I awoke," she said, "I was shot. The defendant was not in the room." She swore that before they went to the hotel and in the hotel room she saw a pistol in Ladue's hand. She believed that Ladue shot her.

the sidewalk at Seventh avenue and Thirty-first street.

It proved that Ladue had given his correct address. He boarded with a Mrs. Ellen Olwell on the top floor of the tenement at 603 First avenue. He is a wood sawyer by trade, and is known at his boarding house as an industrious and sober workman. Parts of three fingers on his right hand are missing.

Last spring he was out of employment and applied to the Howery branch of the Young Men's Christian Association for a job. He got one through their bureau in a hotel near Northport, L. I. He worked there during the summer, and at his bearding house it was said that he got back to town on Friday. He is a widower, his wife having died in St. Luke's Hospital six months ago.

Ladue will be arraigned in the Jefferson Market Police Court this morning.

FUGITIVE BANKERS ARRESTED.

The Siegi Brothers Accused of France Amounting to 240,000 Florins in Vienna, Julius Siegl and Siegfried Siegl, formerly bankers in Vienna, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Alexander yesterday morning on charges of forgery and embezzlebrothers. They were first-class cabin passen ers on the steamship Persia, which arrived here last Friday evening, and were arrested by Deputy Marshal Bernhard on a warrant sworn to by Otto P. Eberhard, Vice-Consul of Austria t this port.

They were represented by Lawver Abraham

H. Sarasohn, while Lawyers Dulon and Ros H. Sarasohn, while Lawyers Dulon and Roe appeared for the Austrian Vice-Consul. Neither of the brothers can speak English, and their lawyer acted as an interpreter. The younger brother, Siegfried, is only 20 years old. His brother is 29. Both wers well dressed and looked like prosperous business men.

Commissioner Alexander read the complaint to the prisoners. It contained the information sent to the Austrian Vice-Consul by cable by the President of Police of Vienna, It charged the prisoners with having passed forged drafts on the following dates and for the following amounts: June 21, 1894, on Joseph Zisarsky, for 3,000 florins; July 10, Joseph Zisarsky, for 3,000 florins; July 10, Joseph Zisarsky, for 2,000 florins; July 11, E. Schenker, for 12,000 florins and for 1,200 florins. On all of these drafts the names of prominent business merchants of Vienna were forged.

Other charges of fraud and forgery have been made against the brothers, and it is believed that they will be accused of procuring about 240,000 florins by fraud. This sum is equal to about $100,000.

The prisoners asked whether, if they consented to return to Austria, they could be tried on any other charges than those specified in the bill of complaint. Commissioner Alexander replied that they could not. They then waived examination and were sent to Ludlow street jail. They say they lost all the money they had in their business, but are not guilty of the specific charges in the complaint. appeared for the Austrian Vice-Consul, Neither

WALDI'S STORY OF ILL USAGE.

He Had Been Robbed and Drugged Proba bly Before He Shot Surgeon Carvey. Matti Waldi, the young Swede who shot Ambulance Surgeon Thomas Garvey of the Harlem Hospital on Friday, told his story with difficulty at the Harlem Police Court yesterday. In addition to being unable to speak English, he seemed dazed and unable to tell a connected story. He was taken to court with his arms bound to his sides and a rope wound around his

He left New London on the Thursday right boat for this city. He carried all the money he possessed ($140 in an old wallet. On the boat he made the acquaintance of three men, one of whom was a Swede. He was induced to drink with them. When he awoke on Friday morning the boat was at her New York pier. His valise, containing his scanty wardrobe, could not be found. He met two of his friends of the night before, and they induced him to go ashore, and promised to report his loss to the police.

They had drinks at several saioons, and in one of them he fell asleep. When he awoke, his money and wallet were missing. He made a camplaint to the bartender, who struck him on the head with a club and threw him out of the place. He wandered about Hattery Park until he met another Swede, who said he intended to sait for Europe on Saturday, and invited him to go to a Sweedish boarding house in Harlem. They walked to Chatham square where they boarded a train; but in the crowd Waldi rods up to Ninety-ninth street, where he said he fell off the train by accident. He said that he remembered nothing of the shooting, He fought in the ambulance because he thought he had been robbed and ill used he wanted to resist arrest and fought those who sought to control him.

Waldi's wounds are slight. The police suspect that he was drugged by the thieves. His story was corroborated by the fact that he had a steerage ticket for the City of Rome, which salled yesterday. The ticket was sold in New London.

He was committed to Believue Hospital to be examined as to his sanity.

SOFT COAL SMOKE NUISANCE. Seven Long Island Railway Firemen Reld for the Grand Jury.

Seven employees of the Long Island Raffroad were arraigned yesterday in the Long Island City Police Court and held for the action of the Queens county Grand Jury for contributing to the soft coal smoke nuisance maintained by the Long Island Railroad in that town. They are: Firemen Henry Speilman, Thomas Garrity, George Easton, Michael Redden, Daniel Lavell, Wil-liam White, and Charles Marshall. They were arrested on their engines, which were burning soft coal, in the railroad yard about a fortnight

CLIMATE AND PEACH GROWING.

Lake or Ocean Is Best There is much promise of cheap and plentiful peaches for New York in years to come in the reports of a heavy crop of Crawford peaches in Orleans and Niagara counties. The region is especially suited to the peach because of the equable climatic influence of the lake. It was the almost insular character of the Delaware peach region quite as much as its latitude that marked it out as peculiarly fitted for the culti-vation of this fruit, and it has been found that the peach prospers far North when well pro-tected by the influence of a large body of water.

A Backwoods Emportum

Scene in the Klamath Country.

A camping party of Salem men is just home from the Klamath country. The Klamath reservation is a fine region, and inhabited by a hearty race of Indians. Mr. Patterson says an Indian that weighed 275 pounds, who had curly hair and a number of other singular characteristics, was noticed. But the grandest sight, say the hunters, was Crater Lake. This is a body of water 4th by 6th miles in dimensiona, having no apparent outlet. Not a fish of any kind inhabits the waters. Two efforts were made to plant the lake with trout, but it seems that they have no means of living, and die off in a short time. While the party was at the lake they encountered a surveying outfit, who were making a geadetic survey, and their figures showed that the lowest bluff on the lake was 250 feet from the ton of the level of the water. It was found that the depth of the water was 1,990 to 2,000 feet, clear as Franch plate glass. From the Morning Oregonian.
